> Wabash, Ind., Sept. 30.—The late eastbound train on the Wabash last evening brought in John Rose, the former treasurer of this city, whose shortage of $11,000 was disclosed when he failed to turn over his office to his successor about a month ago. Last week Mrs. Rose received information that Rose was at Parsons, Kan., and thither Charles Rose, his brother, went for him last week. Rose was willing to come back and face his bondsmen and said that he would do what he could to repair the wrong done. He had suffered greatly, having slept but little in the last two weeks, much of which time he was ill at Parsons. He appears much relieved to get back. He had little money with him, saying that he took but a small amount away.

THEFIRSTAERONAUT

HIS INITIAL FLIGHT INTO SPACE WAS AT PARIS IN 1783.

Pilatre des Rosiers Was the Ploneer of the Long Line of Daring Spirits Who Perished In Their Attempts to Navigate the Air.

The first attempts to make ascensions by means of balloons were mads advance the art of aerostatics.

In the same year Montgolfier con- condition. would be capable of carrying passen eight broad. Its exterior was richly painted and embroidered, there being represented upon it the twelve signs of the zodiac, the arms of the king of France and numberless fleurs-de-lis and lower down, amid a crowd of grotesque heads and garlands of flowers, a flock of eagles, with extended wings, that seemed to be flying and supporting the huge balloon upon their shoulders.

Below the balloon proper was con structed a circular platform of wicker work, covered with silk, which was used as a car. This platform was very large and was surrounded by a balustrade to prevent the aeronauts from falling out. In the center of this platform or car was an opening, below which was suspended by chains an iron stove, which was to be used for rarefying the air in the balleon, while in one corner was a magazine intended for the storing up of an immense quantity of straw, which served as fuel.

Pilatre dès Rosiers, generally alone but at one time accompanied by the Marquis d'Arlandes and on another oceasion by M. Girond de Villette, had ascended in the balloon without cutting the rope which held it captive to n height of 1,290 feet.

Rosiers had much difficulty in obtainng permission from the king to make an ascent without being held down by the rope, but consent was at last se eured, and on the 20th of Novembes 1783, everything was made ready. Dur ing the day the wind and rain were vie ient, and it was found necessary to postpone the ascent. The next day, the 21st, the weather was more faverable, and at 1:30 in the afternoon in the pres ence of the dauphin and his suit Hilatre des Rosiers and the Marquis d'Arlandes set out together from the Jardine de la Mueste upon the fiest nerial torya go dipier addopantill stall parturbated Freather sistemy, but he spile of fract the fire was allowed to die out, and the balloon descended about five miles from Paris. When the aeronauts returned to the Chateau de la Muette, they were greeted with the utmost enthusiasm by the assembled crowds. Benjamin Franklin was a witness of the whole specta cle, and when asked what he thought of it he replied, "I have seen a child born which may one day be a man."

Aerostatics had advanced to such a degree that on the 7th of January, 1785, Blanchard, a rival of Rosiers, crossed over the channel from Dover

Rosiers was spurred on by Blanchard's success and set to work constructing a balloon which, when completed, he called an aeromontgolfier. It consisted of an immense balloon of hydrogen gas, with a large cylinder placed under it, the use of it being to rarefy the air without losing gas. When a favorable day had arrived, Pilatre for the last time made his preparations. He was assisted by a Boulogne physician named Romain, and on June 15, 1785, they stepped into the basket, the ropes were cast off, and the balloon rose with the utmost majesty from the earth. When it had risen about 200 feet, it struck a fresh current of air which took it directly toward the sea. It soon found another current which rapidly carried it back again. It possibly may have been the desire of the aeronauts to descend to find a more favorable current of air, for while opening the valve to let the cold air into his cylinder unfortunately a huge rent was made in the balloon. The consequences were Immediate and horrible. At that time the balloon was 1,700 feet above the surface of the earth. A few moments afterward the two aeronauts lay on the ground dead and horribly muti-

Near the spot where Pilatre des Rosiers was buried a monument was erected in 1853 to commemorate the almost miraculous crossing of the sea by Blanchard, upon the very spot of earth on which that intrepid aeronaut descended. He had become for France a hero, and numbers of inscriptions are still readable.-New York Times.

> The Shortest Lived City. Which of the large cities of the world had the shortest life? In the ancient world the answer is Palmyra. The period of its prosperity extended only from 117 to 273 A. D., 156 years. In the fifth century B. C. Persopolis was the capital of the Persian empire for thirty years only, but this was merely an accident of war and politics. Carthage was the shortest lived seat of empire, for it only endured about 500 years. In modern times the answer would be Amarapura, the former capital of Burma. Founded in 1783, it had in 1800 a population of 175,000. Sixty years later the seat of government was transferred to Mandalay, and Amarapura is now represented only by a few ruined temples and bamboo huts.-London Answers.

Some one who believes in teaching by example has concocted a lesson in the use of two little words which have been a source of mortification and trouble to many well meaning persons. A man or woman either can set a hen, although they cannot sit her; neither can they set on her, although the hen might sit on them by the hour if they would allow it. A man cannot set on the wash bench, but he could set the basin on it. and neither the basin nor the grammarians would object.

He could sit on the dog's tail if the dog were willing or he might set his foot on it. But if he should set on the aforesaid tail or sit his foot there the grammarians as well as the dog would howl, metaphorieally at least. And yet the man might set the tail aside and them sit down and be assailed weither by the dog nor by the grammarians.

There is no fixed price for coal in New York, Nature's punishment of dyspepsia, which stops all pleasures of eating and drink-ing, is the thing that hurts.

THE WAY TO HEALTH is paved with good intentions. When there is an over-full feeling after eating, with bloating and belching, the discor fort leads the man to say, "I must do something for this 'stemach trouble,' But after a time the denomptort passes off and he dees method. Something does werse then nothing by taking something to "settle the stomach" which, by giving temporary relief, encourages him greater delay in taking the proper treatment for the diseased stomach. Palliative pellets, powders and sablets may relieve for a time, but they won't cure. They can't cure. Suppose you saturate there will be a sweet odor in place of a foul one until the strength of the cologne is used up, then the foul smell is worse than ever, and though perfumes may change the odor of garbage they can't arrest the decay. Underneath the perfume decay goes along unhindered. It's so with the foul and diseased stomach. The things that "settle the stomach" and correct for the time acidity, heartburn, etc., have no effect on the disease which is progressing steadily toward the chronic stage.

HAVE YOU REACHED IT?

Have you reached that point where you've had to stop eating what you liked? Are you living on toast and tea, or oatmoal—crackers and milk, coveting the good things you don't dare eat? Do you go to the table dreading the penalty of the meal and its after suffering? You can be cured so that you can eat anything you want, eat it with appetite and digest it properly. Here's the proof :

"I was a great sufferer with dyspepsia for over two years, and I was a complete physical wreck," writes Mr. Preston E. Penstermacher, of Egypt, Lehigh Co., Pa. "Had many torturing, gnawing and aching pains—I think about all that a dyspeptic has or ever could have. I also suffered much with constipation. I tried many different medicines which were many different medicines which were recommended to cure the trouble, but these only made me worse and my condition was more sluggish and weak than before. My stomach was in such a weak condition that the least and easiest kind of food to digest would get sour in my stomach, and I had such a weak and debili-tated appearance that it seemed as if I had hardly any blood in my whole body. Muscles were soft and flabby, circulation poor and slow. Suffered greatly from cold hands and feet. At last I came across an advertisement of Dr. Pierce's. I read it through and thought to myself this firm must have some sympathy with suffering humanity. I wrote to them for a question list blank, which I filled out and returned to them, stating my symptoms and pains. To my great surprise I received by return mail the best and most substantial advice that I ever before read. This advice gave me the greatest confi-dence in the World's Dispensary Medical Association, even so great that I at once left off all former remedies and tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical ery' which brought me back to my former state of health." TO BE KEPT IN MIND.

Let every person who has some slight disorder of the stomach keep this in mind: What hurts the stomach hurts the whole body and every part of it. The body is sustained by food when digested and converted into nutrition. But when the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased the food eaten cannot be properly digested, the nutrition of the body fails, with the natural result of weakness. Hence the loss of flesh, the run-down condition, the "weak" heart, sluggish liver, "weak" kidneys and other diseases which are a direct result of the diseased condition of the stomach,

ourse diseases of the stomach and office organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, and therefore the proper nourishment of the body. By its use lost flesh is regained, weakness gives place to strength, and the body is bunt up with sound flesh and solid muscle.
